To the attention of Jarlath Doherty,
Chief People Officer at Squarespace,

From early on, I've been fascinated by the intersection of technology and design — and Squarespace stands out as a true reference in this space. As I explored your work, I found myself drawn to the attention to detail, the focus on user experience, and the elegance of the solutions you create. That's why I'm writing to express my genuine interest in becoming part of your team.

I bring around a year and a half of professional experience in web development, working across both front-end and back-end, always with a focus on delivering functional, intuitive, and visually polished solutions. My journey began with a technical-vocational course in Systems Management and Programming, and I am currently completing my first year of a bachelor's degree in computer engineering at Universidade Lusófona.

More than a list of technologies, I value the ability to solve problems creatively and collaboratively — something I deeply admire in Squarespace's culture. I'm always looking for challenging environments where I can grow while meaningfully contributing to projects with real impact.

I would love the opportunity to speak with you and explore how I might support your mission of making the web a more beautiful and accessible place.

Sincerely,

Filipa
